Mr. Rozenfeld teaches at Pavol Jozef Safarik University in Kosice in Slovakia and maintains the position as the head of the department of British and American studies. By focusing on enhancing the entrepreneurship and employability of graduates, his work aids in the creation of jobs and the elimination of regional disparities. During this year, he hopes to gain knowledge about the US policies and systems policies and systems for training teachers and US academic program designs at the university level. Mr. Rozenfeld looks forward to sharing his knowledge with the Association for Teacher Education in Europe.