Full Funding Available for M.Ed. in Special Education at Vanderbilt University

Delivering Evidence-Based Inclusive Education for Students with Severe Disabilities in High-Need Schools

Accepted Master’s students receive:
- Full tuition funding
- Funding to attend professional conferences
- Opportunities to work on innovative research, training, and outreach projects
- Strong mentorship from leading faculty in the field of severe disabilities

The Department of Special Education is the top-ranked program in the nation. Severe disabilities program faculty include Alexandra Da Fonte, Robert Hodapp, Deborah Hatton, Erik Carter, Karen Blankenship, Paul Yoder, and Victoria Knight.

Application process:
Applicants must have three letters of recommendation, a 3.0+ GPA, strong GRE scores, and a compelling written statement. For general information about the application process, contact Alfred Brady at (615) 322-8195 or sped-admissions@vanderbilt.edu. Application deadline is December 31. Applications received after this date will be reviewed only at the department’s discretion.

For more information contact:
- Dr. Erik Carter
  erik.carter@vanderbilt.edu  OR
- Dr. Alexandra DaFonte
  alexandra.dafonte@vanderbilt.edu

Funding for this doctoral leadership training is provided by a grant from the Office of Special Education Programs (H325D140077).